Prop 28 funds enabled our school to expand access to a variety of arts education opportunities throughout the school year. Students participated in contracted arts instruction that introduced them to multiple artistic disciplines, including fashion and clothing design, acting, painting, and music. These experiences allowed students to explore creative expression while developing foundational artistic skills. Funds were also used to purchase art supplies that supported arts-based social-emotional learning activities. Through these projects, students engaged in creative experiences that encouraged self-expression, self-reflection, collaboration, and communication.
